

PASTOR DENIES UXORICIDE WHEN HE'S ARRAIGNED

Ina, Ill., Preacher Facing Double Murder Ac- cusation Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 19.—Hours of questioning by State's Attorney Frank G. Thompson had failed today to shake the composure of the Rev. Lawrence High of Ina, near here, who was arrested yesterday after a chemist reported poison had been found in the stomach of his wife, Anna, who died, Sept. 12.

The exhumation of the body of Wilford Sweetin of Ina, who died unexpectedly about two months ago, was completed yesterday and the stomach sent to Chicago for analysis to determine if he had been poisoned.

Gossip Causes Probe.
Sweetin, who left a widow, died under circumstances similar in some ways, officials said, to the death of the minister's wife. It was this similarity and resulting gossip that caused the state's attorney to order the stomach of Mrs. High sent to Chicago for analysis.

The Rev. High reiterated today that he was innocent of the charges against him and declared his present plight was due to a series of unfortunate circumstances and to village gossip.

The state's attorney and coroner, with two physicians left today for Metropolis where the body of the minister's wife is buried. It will be again exhumed in order to obtain other organs to make a more complete examination for further evidence of poison.

Church Probe On.
Meanwhile, a separate investigation has been started by the officials of the church of which Mr. High is a member. The Rev. C. C. Hall of Mount Vernon, district superintendent, had a long talk with the Rev. High last night.

The Southern Conference of which Mr. High is a member, meets at Mount Vernon next week and the Rev. Mr. Hall will make a report of his investigation to that body for action.

The event, church officials decide, the minister is unjustly accused, it is said, the church will assist in defending him. If the officials believe him guilty they will give every aid to the prosecution.

Mrs. High died under mysterious circumstances last Friday and was buried at Metropolis, the former home of the family. It was after a conference between the state's attorney of this city and of Massac County, that it was decided to exhumate Mrs. High's body for further examination. A Chicago chemist reported yesterday he had found enough poison in the stomach of the dead woman to cause her death. It was then that the arrest of the clergyman was ordered.

Mrs. High was 60 years old and, although the coroner returned a verdict of death by natural causes, gossip continued to keep rumors swirling regarding the cause of Sweetin's death. His body was disinterred yesterday in order that the contents of his stomach may be analyzed.

A search of the home of the clergyman following his arrest, revealed a box that was reported to have contained poison of the same kind as had been found in the woman's stomach. The minister declared he had purchased the poison to kill rats.

"I am not guilty of the charges that have been made against me in connection with the death of my wife," said the minister yesterday, when brought here from Ina. "It is well enough when my children lose their mother, but the blow is made harder by the charges brought in connection with her death."

Waived Early Hearing.
The coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. High was continued yesterday in order to permit a fuller investigation before a verdict is returned. At the inquest, the proprietor and a clerk of the store from which Mrs. High claimed to have purchased her medicine, her husband and children, denied that any man had been bought at the store.

Hight waived preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering his wife and was bound over to the October term of circuit court.

Thomas Sweetin, father of Wilford Sweetin, accused Hight in jail last night of poisoning his son and had to be quieted by attendants.

Praised His Wife.
"My wife was a good woman and I'll never see another like her," the minister told reporters. "She helped me in the church work. I never heard her complain."

"There was talk, I remember now, about Mrs. Sweetin and I don't know why. I was not any more partial to her than to any other of the church women. She sometimes went with me in my automobile, but my wife was always alone."

The circumstances of Sweetin's death were that he and his wife attended a church social at Benton and had eaten ice cream. When they returned to Ina, both were taken ill, it was said. The Rev. High, who was a friend of the family, frequently called on Sweetin and helped nurse him. After an illness of ten days, Sweetin died and Mr. High preached the funeral service.

When Mrs. High fell sick a few months later, neighbors said the minister nursed her with great solicitude and was with her to the end.

The Rev. Mr. High is 49 years

Special Verdict Has Been Ordered: Heavy
Court Term Assured
Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court yesterday afternoon issued an order calling for a special venire of 35 jurymen to serve on the panel of petit jurors for the fourth and fifth weeks of the September term. The prospect for at least seven weeks of jury work at this term necessitated the calling of the additional panel.

EXPECT DIXON- POLO ROAD TO BE OPEN SOON

Completion of Paving Before Winter, is Now Indicated.

The new pavement south of Polo was opened to traffic Wednesday as far as Cavanaugh's corner, a distance of about six miles. The work between Cavanaugh's corner and contractors pouring about 1000 feet a day which is at the rate of better than a mile a week. It is expected that the entire road from Dixon to Polo will be open to traffic before winter.

The work of grading and making the shoulders on the road north of Polo, near Forrester, which was in progress last week, has been halted owing to the fact that the contractors could get no money from the state to pay their men, consequently they had to quit work. The reports are to the effect that the state in many instances is asking the contractors to wait until next year for their money, the state's road money being exhausted. If the shoulders on this strip are not fixed the pavement is not going to be safe for travel this winter. In some places the drop from the cement is considerable and the ground is extremely soft, which would make it quite difficult for a car once off the pavement to get back on.

Stranger Lands in Jail After Stealing Shoes at Local Store

Jack McCarthy, aged 22, of Chicago, was taken to jail yesterday after stealing a pair of shoes and getting caught. McCarthy is spending 30 days in the county jail because he satisfied his own longings. Jack passed the Marks store on Galena avenue yesterday afternoon and cleverly slipped a pair of shoes beneath his overcoat which he carried. It was his first visit in Dixon and he headed straight for the railroad yards. As he was passing the city hall, Chief Van Bibber's watchful eye spotted Jack, and he was hailed and questioned as to his destination.

Jack was very accommodating in answering questions put to him and said that he was on his way back home after unsuccessfully trying to sail before the mast of a Pacific freighter from California ports. Officer Harry Jones discovered the pair of shoes, which still bore the sale tag, sliding from beneath the folds of the overcoat and Jack admitted, when further questioned that he had purloined the shoes. He was taken into custody on an information, pleaded guilty and was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Wales Has Seen Plenty of New York For Present

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Prince of Wales, having arrived home with the dawn today after an eventful stay in Manhattan yesterday, has decided he has seen enough of the American metropolis for the present. Members of his party announced that the prince probably would not again visit New York before he leaves his home at the Burden estate here for his Alberta ranch next Sunday night. He feels, they said, that his three visits to New York, culminating yesterday in his reception by great crowds, will serve him until he returns to America, possibly in 1925.

Wales expected to play golf late in the afternoon with Louis Stoddard, polo association president. He took the polo match at Meadowbrook tomorrow. Beyond that the plans for the remaining days of his stay are uncertain. Captain Lascelles his secretary, said.

$40,000 Bank Robbery in St. Louis Suburb Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Wellston, Mo., Sept. 19.—Five armed and masked bandits entered the Wellston Trust Company in this St. Louis suburb shortly before the opening hour today, lined up the six officials and employees against the wall, leisurely scooped up the cash and currency in the cages, and vault, amounting to between $35,000 and $40,000 and escaped.

Dixon Horses to Start at Mendota this P. M.

Goldie B. owned by Mrs. Roy Beck of near Polo, was fourth in the 212 pace at Mendota Thursday afternoon, the race being won by Delwood, owned by Rumley of Sterling. This afternoon T. E. Beck's "Naomi Girl" and Hoyle's "Edell" were entered in the feature trot of the program. A good crowd was in attendance yesterday.

Miss Mary Richards of Moline who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. John Earl, fell recently, spraining her ankle. She expects to leave for Princeton next week, if she recovers sufficiently.

John L. Orvis is confined to his home by illness.

His wife was 44. Sweetin was 35 and Mrs. Sweetin is about the same age.

BIG GATHERING OF KLANSMEN HELD IN DIXON YESTERDAY

Address By Grand Dragon at Assembly Park Was Feature of Meeting.

The largest meeting of the Ku Klux Klan that has ever been held in this locality, was staged at the Assembly park here yesterday afternoon and evening. A feature of the evening session was a parade of the robed Klansmen and Klanswomen from the park through the business section and back to the auditorium where the program was carried out. It was estimated that there were about 300 robed men and women marching in the parade and many more followed in automobiles. The Kable Brothers band of Mt. Morris headed the procession through the business district and the Ashton band headed the Klan women's section.

Three large classes were naturalized during the afternoon and evening, candidates for the Klan, the Junior Klan and the Women's sections.

The big auditorium at the Assembly would not accommodate the large crowd of Klansmen and their families of northern Illinois and eastern Iowa, that assembled for the festival. Large crowds filled the doorways on all sides to listen to the address of Charles G. Palmer of Chicago, Grand Dragon of Illinois, which was the feature of the evening program.

Amplifiers in Hall.
"What is the Ku Klux Klan?" was the subject of the head of the Illinois Klan's address. The auditorium was equipped with a complete amplifying outfit for this address.

The slogan of the Ku Klux Klan is "America for Americans," the speaker said in beginning his talk. He then told of the early history of America and led up to the organization and present day plans of the Klan. "Our program for the coming year is an educational one," he said.

"The Ku Klux Klan is an organization far from being the law-breaking force of men which has been so often claimed and repeatedly published. Odium has repeatedly been directed at the Klan. The Ku Klux Klan are charged with taking the law in their own hands, of night-riding and many other desperate things. Every Klansman is sworn to uphold the law and not break it. We consider the white race the superior of all races in the world and it is our desire to keep it as such. We are opposed to the interference of a foreign potentate in our national or political life and above all hope to keep America for Americans."

Klan Not in Politics.

"The Ku Klux Klan is accused of being active in politics. It is not and cannot dictate or take active part in any politics. The Ku Klux Klan says to its membership, 'you will see that that good men are put in office as public officials, but do not dictate to the membership for whom or what it shall vote. We believe that a man who does not vote is a failure as an American and go to the polls and vote is not a good citizen. If you are as asset to the community in which you live, you will vote in the primary and in the general election, you will take a personal interest in all candidates for office and vote intelligently. If you are a good American citizen, find out who the candidates for public office are, what they stand for and see to it that reliable men, despite party affiliations, are elected to fill these offices. Find out the names and propositions that are on the ballot before going to the polls and do not stop 100 feet, more or less, from the polling place and ask some political boss who to vote for and where you shall put your cross."

"Political parties have sought for the support of the Ku Klux Klan but we say we are for the best man despite his party affiliations and for the proposition which is for the betterment of our country."

Belle for Women.

"We believe that women have an equal right to vote and have a voice in our governmental and public affairs, the same right that man has always had. Women of today often make a more careful study of candidates and propositions than men and in some instances vote more intelligently than man ever did."

"It is the belief of the Ku Klux Klan that the boys and girls of today, who are to be the men and women of tomorrow, should be taught the ideals and principals of this country and should have impressed upon them their constitutional right of receiving an education in the public schools of America."

"We have the Junior Order of the Ku Klux Klan for boys from the ages of 12 to 18 years. They are taught obedience to parents, love of country, respect of the flag, respect of all laws, history of the United States and Christianity. In these we believe that we will have better citizens when they reach their maturity, as they are taught to keep America for Americans, the same as we are all Klansmen."

The speaker also touched on the Klan's women organization and the American Crusaders, the kindred organization for foreign-born naturalized citizens of the United States.

W. W. Moore of this city opened the program with a brief talk and acted as platform manager. Preceding the program and interspersed between the talks were selections by the Kable Bros. band of Mt. Morris, and a male quartette from Oregon. The crowd present at the park during the evening was said to be in excess of eight thousand men and women.

Mrs. Richardson, of Ashton, wife of Deputy Sheriff Richardson of that town, was a Dixon shopper yesterday.

CHARGE MEXICAN GOT BANK FUNDS OF COUNTRYMAN

New $100 Bill Said to Have Brought About His O Apprehension.

James Zarko, a Mexican employed at the cement plant, is in custody at the county jail pending an investigation, started after he was picked up at the request of one of the local banks after he is alleged to have very cleverly, but fraudulently, secured more than $400 in cash from the institution.

Zarko is alleged to have entered one of the banks a few days ago and presented a deposit book made out to Raymond Marvez, another Mexican employed at the plant, and stated that he wished to withdraw his account as he had left his job and was about to depart from Dixon. The money, amounting to $41.09, was said to have been paid after Zarko had very cleverly duplicated the signature of the rightful depositor.

Later Marvez entered the bank to withdraw some money and the operation was discovered. In paying out the deposit, a new one hundred dollar bill had been given and this bill, which was signed by the president and cashier of the local bank, was found to have been offered in payment for a small account at the Fazzi store, east of the city. Zarko was said to have offered the bill in payment of his account and he was taken in custody. He stoutly denies any knowledge of the transaction.

LACK OF MONEY IS HANDICAP IN BOY'S FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

Grant's Parents Unable to Pay Witnesses' Expenses to Capital.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 19.—A special meeting of the state board of pardons and paroles, with Governor Small presiding, at an early date, possibly within ten days, will be asked by counsel for Bernard Grant, sentenced to hang Oct. 17, his counsel said today, as the petition to Governor Small for clemency came from the printers. The petition is expected to go to the governor early next week.

Letters of persons opposed to the death penalty continued to reach Attorney Thomas L. Swanson of the defense. One, from Miss Ruby Simmonds, 404 Prairie St., Peoria, Ill., enclosed one dollar as a contribution to the defense.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 19.—Lack of money may handicap Bernard Grant, 19, in his plea for a commutation of the death sentence imposed on him with Walter Krauser for killing Policeman Ralph Sanders, according to Thomas E. Swanson, Grant's attorney.

The boy's family exhausted its funds in the trial of the son, who must die October 17 unless he receives executive clemency. How to pay the expenses of 20 witnesses to testify before the governor, is the family's problem, the attorney said.

Krauser who first implicated Grant and now says Grant had no connection with the killing, is ready to appear before the Governor in Grant's behalf, Mr. Swanson said.

The same sentiment is expressed in a letter to the Chicago Tribune from Mrs. Alice Krauser, mother of Walter.

The petition to the Governor probably will be sent next week after the return here of Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for Leopold and Loeb who has promised to aid Grant, Mr. Swanson said.

Fliers Continue After Heavy Rain this Morn

Hat Box Field, Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The army around the world flew took off from Muskogee for Dallas, Texas, 25 miles away, their next lap on the globe encircling journey, at 12:30 p. m.

The Chicago was the first to take the air followed by the Boston and then the New Orleans. They were delayed in starting by a heavy rain which started at 8 a. m., and by reports of rain and wind along the route to Dallas.

The airmen believe the Dallas-El Paso stage, more than 700 miles will be one of the hardest flights of their entire journey.

Search for Bodies of Two in Cave in Failed

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 19.—A continued search among debris which buried four men in a cavern here Wednesday for the bodies of two men, William Benjon and John Milich both of Detroit, has so far proved futile. One man, Otto Cina, is recovering in a hospital while Joseph Tica died after rescue.

A civil investigation was set late yesterday into the cause of the responsibility.

Amboy Railroad Man Held for Hillsboro Officers

J. M. Staff, an Illinois Central employee, was arrested at Amboy yesterday by Deputy Sheriff A. H. Hill. Staff is being held in the county jail here pending the arrival of a representative from the sheriff's office at Hillsboro, Montgomery county, where he is wanted.

DENEEN TO COME TO DIXON FRIDAY FOR SHORT VISIT

Senatorial Candidate to Make Tour of Northern Part of State.

GOVERNOR DENEEN'S ITINERARY.
Friday, September 26.
10 A. M.—DeKalb.
11:30 A. M.—Rockford.
2 P. M.—Dixon.
4 P. M.—Sterling.
8 P. M.—Savanna.
Saturday, September 27.
10 A. M.—Galena.
1:30 P. M.—Freeport.
4 P. M.—Belvidere.
8 P. M.—Rockford.

Northern Illinois voters will have an opportunity last next week to hear former Governor Charles S. Deneen Republican nominee for United States Senator, in a series of campaign addresses which will carry him through 24 counties, bringing him to Dixon next Friday and wind up in Rockford Saturday night, September 27.

Governor Deneen will resume his speaking tour next Monday morning with an address at 9 o'clock at Monroe. He will average four addresses a day in central Illinois, entering the northern part of the state Wednesday when he talks at Joliet.

Thursday Governor Deneen will appear at Naper, Elgin, Woodstock and Aurora; the itinerary for the last two days of his trip is given above. The tour will carry him through the strongholds of Republicanism in Illinois.

Well Received in South.
Reports to the Republican State Central Committee from the territory through which Governor Deneen campaigned the second week of his trip, were highly gratifying. Speaking five and six times a day and beginning always at 9 o'clock in the morning, he had a large audience everywhere, and in addition the very hearty cooperation of the Republican organization in every county he visited.

As he spent much of the time in agricultural territory he naturally talked to many farmers, and in his speech at Petersburg, Wednesday afternoon, said:

"The plank in the Democratic platform relating to the tariff attempts to convey in an indirect way what the Democratic platform heretofore have at some time said directly. It denounces the principle of the protective tariff and favors a tax on commodities entering the customs houses that will permit effective competition.

Means Foreign Competition.
"In the Democratic platform relating to agriculture, that party states that it will adjust the tariff so that the farmer and all other classes can buy in a competitive manufacturers' market."

"It is obvious that these planks mean that the Democratic party favors reducing tariff on manufactured so low that the manufactured products of other lands may compete in American markets with American manufactured products. This is done under the pretext and statement that the American farmers' market for his products in Europe and elsewhere can be improved and enlarged through the purchasing power of money paid to European manufacturers by American consumers for the products of their cheap labor, and it would follow, if their contention is true, that the greater the displacement of the products of high priced European labor the greater would be the prosperity of the farmer."

"According to their theory, the farmer is suffering because of low prices for his products and he can be relieved of his suffering by having the wage earners paid low prices for their labor. But that it let go of the substance to grasp a shadow. Our foreign market for agricultural products in 1921 was the greatest the nation has had in its history, save in the World War period. But the farmer went broke in 1921 because of the low prices received by him for his products in Europe. They did not meet the cost of production. The farmer has prospered as the home market has expanded, and after all the home market takes care of more than ninety per cent of his products and is the best assurance for his sound and permanent prosperity. The Republican party, through its tariff laws created and sustained the home market."

Coolidge-Dawes Motor
Caravan in Pennsylvania
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Bedford, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Coolidge-Dawes coast-to-coast caravan, escorted by scores of automobiles, left Bedford today for the trip over the Somerset mountains. The caravan halted at Greensburg during the afternoon. A large delegation of Pittsburgh district republicans met the campaigners here. They will form a guard of honor for the travelers into Pittsburgh.

WISCONSIN GETS FIRST CHANCE AT ROBBERY SUSPECT

Another Man, Wanted in Lee Co., Taken By Rock- ford Police.

Tony Dlovingo, wanted in connection with the robbery of the Franklin Grove garage a few weeks ago as an accomplice of Emil Kunz, who is now being held at Beloit, Wis., is under arrest at Rockford, his home. Dlovingo was arrested by detectives of the Rockford police force and according to word received by Sheriff Risley this morning will not be turned over to Lee county.

Sheriff Risley spent some time in trying to locate Dlovingo last week, and notified the Rockford authorities that he held three bench warrants, two charging larceny and one charging burglary, for the fellow. In a round-about manner the sheriff was informed this morning that Dlovingo was under arrest and was about to be turned over to Janesville, Wis., authorities, the three Lee county warrants being ignored.

Dlovingo is said to have denied any complicity in the Franklin Grove garage robbery and theft of a Willys-Knight touring car, belonging to Kearney, Neb., parties. He places all the blame on Emil Kunz, whom he says picked him up in Rockford the morning following the robbery and started into Wisconsin. While Dlovingo was driving the stolen car at the time of the arrest, he claimed that Kunz became sleepy and that he was relieving him at the wheel. Dlovingo walked away from the car when officers stopped them near Beloit and Kunz was awakened from his slumbers and placed under arrest.

FLOOD FEARED IN CALIFORNIA AFTER CAVE-IN

Landslide on Mt. Shasta Brings Threats of More Trouble.

Dunsmuir, Calif., Sept. 19.—Residents of Weed, McCleod, Dunsmuir and other communities in this vicinity, felt considerable anxiety today as a result of a cave-in and landslide on Mount Shasta yesterday when approximately 15 acres of the surface of the southeastern slope crashed down into Mud Creek Canyon, menacing the countryside with another flood of mud and rocks.

The landslide caused the collapse of the walls of Mud Creek canyon for a distance of eight miles and was accompanied by a terrific roar and was followed by a cloud of dust and volcanic ash which hung over the mountain for several hours. It was reported from several directions that the cloud of dust and ash was visible as far away as 25 miles.

The slide yesterday is said to have been impending for days and is attributed to recently melting snows, which have loosened the earth over a wide territory, and to the stream of mud that has flown from the mountain's summit intermittently for weeks, depositing mud and rock far down into the plains.

What is feared most today is that water and mud accumulating from melting snow will overflow the broken and weakened walls of Mud Canyon and again flow down in a greater torrent than ever and cause great destruction below.

Mellon Promises All Possible Aid in Probe

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Sept. 19.—With assurance of full access to its records and files from Secretary Mellon, the special senate committee appointed to investigate the internal revenue bureau expects to be ready within six weeks to begin public hearings on new phases of its investigation.

The scope of the inquiry was mapped out at an executive session of the committee yesterday, at which the treasury secretary appeared and gave assurance of his hearty cooperation. With the spotlight of investigation to be thrown on both the income tax and prohibition units of the bureau, Senator Couzens of Michigan, chairman of the committee, who was authorized to appoint a force of examiners, engineers and agents to obtain the information desired, said this probably would require five or six weeks. Should this information be available, however, the hearings, he said, would begin before the elections.

FORMER DIXON MAN HONORED BY AM. LEGION

Fr. Joseph H. Lonergan Chosen National Chaplain of Legion

BULLETIN.
St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—After naming John A. Drain of Washington, D. C., as national commander and choosing five national vice commanders and the national chaplain, the sixth annual convention of the American Legion adjourned here today, at 12:53 p. m., to meet in Omaha, in 1925.

Rev. Father Joseph H. Lonergan of Durand, Ill., native of Lee county, who has many relatives and friends in this county and vicinity, and who at one time was priest of the Catholic parish at Polo, was today unanimously elected National Chaplain of the American Legion after the Indiana delegation had withdrawn their candidate, Rev. Stewart L. Long of that state.

News of the honor tendered Father Lonergan was received in Dixon in Associated Press leased wire dispatches to the Evening Telegraph and brought expressions of gratification from the young priest's many friends here, many of whom remember his boyhood and youth here, and all of whom recall his excellent Flag Day address delivered for the Dixon Elks at their public celebration in 1922.

Given Free Demonstration.
The A. P. dispatches continued: "The new national chaplain pledged his best efforts to the furtherance of the work of the Legion after a demonstration that brought state standards to the platform."

Fr. Lonergan's election followed the choice of John A. Drain as Commander, who on the first ballot had a majority of all accredited votes before the roll call was two-thirds completed, and as the poll ended his total had been swelled considerably.

Only two other names were presented to the convention, those of John R. McQuigg of Cleveland and E. E. Spafford

HE WHO SERVES.
He has not served who gathers gold,
Nor has he served whose life is told
In selfish battles he has won
Or deeds of skill he has done.
But he has served who now and then
Has helped along his fellow men.

The world needs many men today;
Red blooded men along life's way,
With cheerful smiles and helping hands
And with the faith that understands
The beauty of the simple deed,
Which serves another hour of need.

Strong men to stand beside the weak,
Kind men to hear others speak,
True men to keep our country's laws
And guard its honors and its cause;
Men who will bravely play life's game
Nor ask rewards of gold or fame.

Teach me to do the best I can
To help and cheer my fellow man;
Teach me to lose my selfish need
And glory in the larger deed
Which smooths the road and lights
The day
For all who chance to come my way.
—Edgar A. Guest.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.
Clean in Soapsuds.

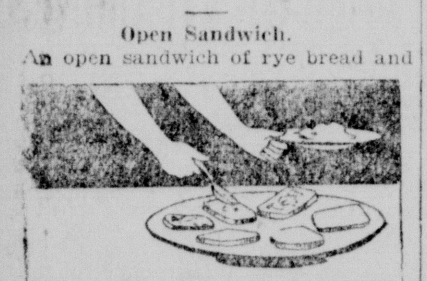

If you use the old-fashioned irons,
Clean them occasionally by washing in strong soapsuds. This will keep them smooth.

Beating Rugs.
If possible, beat rugs and carpets over a set of bed springs. This is one of the methods of cleaning used by professionals.

Stabilized Vases.
Keep a little sand or a handful of small shot in vases that are so shaped that they are easily tipped. It will prevent much breakage.

Turpentine in Boiler.
Put a little turpentine in the wash boiler when you wash clothes and you will find it has a decidedly whitening effect.

Open Sandwich.
An open sandwich of rye bread and thin sliced salmon with tartar sauce is an excellent suggestion for luncheon.

W. R. C. TO MEET MONDAY.
The members of the W. R. C., Auxiliary to the G. A. R., will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
There will be initiation of candidates and a large attendance is desired.

Headaches Cured
Headaches, so often caused by defective vision, can only be cured with properly fitted glasses.
We can fit your eyes so that the cause will be entirely removed and your headaches will disappear. We have cured innumerable cases in this way.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Krinbill

The Sunday Press-Telegram of Long Beach, Cal., printed the following article on Sunday, Sept. 7th, regarding the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Krinbill, former Dixon residents. Prof. Krinbill was at one time supervisor of music in the Dixon schools, and his son, Prof. Clarence Krinbill was teacher of piano.
The family has many friends here.

The article follows:
A bride and groom of fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. George Krinbill were the guests of guests of honor at a reception given Wednesday, their anniversary, by their son, Clarence Krinbill, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johanning at the stately Johanning home in Los Cerritos. In spirit and appearance Mr. and Mrs. Krinbill were among the youngest of the guests as they received the congratulations and good wishes of nearly four hundred guests throughout the afternoon and evening. That this was the "golden" anniversary was noted in the prevailing color of the masses of flowers decorating the rooms with their sunny beauty. Goldenrod, flaming dahlias, yellow roses sent to the "bride" because she had expressed her love for them—every Summer flower that is the color of the sun spent its stored sunshine lavishly for the golden wedding.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs.
Johanning and Mr. Krinbill were assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. M.
Forsyth, Mrs. Charles Blott, Mrs.
Claud Matthews and Mrs. J. G. Die-trick. In the dining room, where the prevailing color was carried out in all the appointments, light refreshments were served by Ruth Pierce, Honor Dietrick, Bonnie Pierce, Ruth
McKinley, Florence Forsyth, Camille
Blott, Faith Forsyth and Frances Robbins.

Of bridal white was the gown in which Mrs. Krinbill greeted the guests. Despite the dignity of its simple cut, it was perhaps even more graceful than the elaborate frock of cream-and-brown silk—laden with bias tucks, voluminous as to skirt, high-necked, and with snugly fitted basque
—in which she said the nuptial vows fifty years ago. The golden wedding dress was of canton crepe, pearl bead-ed, and with a yoke of rare old Mexican lace, shken and delicate as a cobweb. Over her shoulders Mrs. Krinbill wore a gossamer Mexican scarf, which in the cool of the evening was replaced by a beautiful Chinese shawl of white silk, fringed and heavily embrodered. Mrs. Johanning's gown was a beaded apricot crepe de chine.

The afternoon program was given by Miss Birdena Henry of Columbia University, an old-time Eastern friend of Mrs. Johanning. She gave a group of "lyrics of the season," "Apple Blossoms," by Martin, for Spring; Tennyson's "The Thistle," for Summer;
"The Cornstalk Fiddle," by Dunbar, representative of Autumn, and for Winter, "Bonnie Babin," by Anderson. A Browning group followed.

A piano group consisting of Chopin's "Berceuse," "Venetian Gondolier," by Liszt, and Liebling's "Florence Waltz" was given by Harry Driver.
Mrs. Ruth Bennett, lyric soprano, hurried home from the East for the occasion and sang a program of old-time songs and modern ballads. Mrs. Bennett also sang in the evening. No domestic picture is more charming than that formed by a pretty woman seated at a piano and singing, and in her trim black frock and closely coiffed dark hair, with the light of a goldenshaded lamp falling upon her, Mrs.
Bennett was as lovely as could be desired.

Throughout the evening the musical

Sunshine Class Had Meeting Last Eve

The Sunshine Class of St. Paul's Lutheran church enjoyed last evening in the church parlors at their regular monthly business and social meeting.
There was considerable business following the vacation season. The first pictures ready for the composite picture of the class, were shown and interesting letters read from former members. More than thirty were in attendance at the meeting.

Miss Inez Lindsey played a violin solo, "Evening Brings Rest to You," by Bishop, and responded to an encore with "Waiting for Ships that Never Come In." She was accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Mildred Lindsey.

Miss Eva Peterson sang, "I'm a Pilgrim," by Herbert Johnson. Miss Emma Ankeny accompanied her.
In the east room the hostesses had arranged a large circle of chairs around a beautiful center table, where the guests were served generous refreshments. Flowers of various kinds were used as a large part of the decorations. The hostesses were Mesdames Augusta Martenson, Hannah Martenson, Mary Peterson, Anna Manning, Mary Fisher, Fannie Le-Peuvre, Gertrude Wilson, Clara Schick, Carrie Winders.

Assisting in receiving in the evening were Mrs. George King, Mrs.
W. W. Heffron, Mrs. Kirke White,
Mrs. Claude Matthews and Miss Lillian Claypool. The punch bowl was presided over by Le Noir Blott, Claudine Emmmons, Thelma Lester, Bonnie Pierce, Harriet Lawson, Geraldine
Sprague, Olive Schmeitzler, Mary Schweitzer, Margaret and Eleanor Hollywood. Little Mary Clair Johanning was at the door in the afternoon and Virginia Herring in the evening.
Miss Frances Wallace also assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Krinbill were married, September 3, 1874, in Crown Point, Ind. The bride was Evelyn McWilliams, born close to the old home of the late President, Warren
G. Harding, in Marion, Ohio, in 1852.
Mr. Krinbill was born in the same year, in Crown Point. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Krinbill lived in various Middle Western States, where Mr. Krinbill taught music in the public schools, and wrote school songs, which have been sung by thousands of children all over North America. Fourteen years ago they came to California and have lived in Long Beach for the past ten years. Their home is at 348 Carroll Park West, where their son, the survivor of the family of two children, makes his home with them. The year of their fiftieth anniversary was made the occasion of an extended Summer trip through the East and the Canadian Rockies for Mr. and Mrs. Krinbill and Clarence Krinbill.

Particularly prized among the beautiful gifts and friendly messages received on their anniversary is a telegram of congratulations and regrets addressed to the Krinbills from President Coolidge.

Resolution Adopted at Auxiliary Convention

St. Paul, Sept. 18.—Support of the disabled officers bill was urged in a resolution adopted at today's session of the American Legion Auxiliary's convention.

The legislation committee report as adopted recommends state legislation providing for compulsory education; English as a medium of instruction in our schools; instruction in American history and civic government; college credit for history and civic government; a flag on every school house;
patriotic exercises, education of im-

Celebrated Birthday on Sunday, Sept. 14th

In the home of his daughter, Mrs.
John Calkins of Milledgeville, Ill., Peter H. Gigous celebrated his eighty-second birthday, Sept. 14th.

The day was spent in a social way with a picnic dinner at noon. Those present included W. W. Gigous and family, and Harry Reitzel of Dixon;
F. L. Gigous and wife of Chadwick, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mackley and son, Donald of Rockford, Ill.

Mrs. Mackley is a daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. W. W. Gigous.

Their were four generations present.
The day was ideal and all enjoyed the occasion very much, and departed with best wishes for many happy returns of the day for Mr. Gigous.

GUESTS HAVE LEFT FOR WALLA WALLA, WASH.

Mrs. A. F. Moore, Sr., and Mrs. A.
C. Gruber, who have been guests of Doctor A. F. Moore and wife, of Dixon and of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, residing near Polo, have left for their home in Walla Walla, Wash. Mrs.
Moore and Mrs. Gruber are mother and sister, respectively, of Doctor Moore and his brother, Frank Moore, and have enjoyed their visit here very much.

Miss Huntzberry and Mr. Binkley Wed
Laverne Binkley of Polo, and Miss Marvel Huntzberry of Leaf River, were married yesterday at the parsonage to the First Methodist Episcopal church in Springfield, Rev. Freeman A. Havighurst officiating.

Social Calendar of

BOBCAT PASSED UP TALK ABOUT HIS PET PLANS

Refused to Discuss Proposal to Give Congress Supreme Power.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Sept. 19.—Encouraged by the reception given him at a rally last night in Madison Square Garden, Senator R. M. La Follette, independent candidate for president, pressed forward today with his campaign, discussing strategy and plans with friends and spectators who called at his hotel here.

Among those who had an engagement with the Senator was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who has not conferred with Mr. La Follette since the federation's executive council endorsed his candidacy.

Mr. La Follette in his address last night, declared he would not permit
"foolish and preposterous assertions of his opponents with regard to his advocacy of a constitutional amendment which would give congress the power to override judicial vetoes of measures," to keep him from discussing the vital issues of the campaign.

He assailed President Coolidge, declaring that as vice president he had been in a position to know all about the naval oil leasing transaction and other alleged irregularities during the Harding administration. "The acts of the Harding-Coolidge administration," he insisted, must be judged as a whole.

The Wisconsin senator referred to John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee as a "certain distinguished lawyer who blocked efforts of the public to reduce telephone rates in New York."

LOOK OUT FOR SELF POISONING

Neglect of the liver results in self poisoning! Not so quickly, perhaps, but just as surely as if you drank poison out of a bottle. If your liver is not doing its work of helping digestion, eliminating waste from the bowels and purifying the blood, you will always be troubled with sick headaches, nausea, biliousness, bad breath, gas, sour stomach, or constipation.

Cleanse and tone your liver! Put your system in condition so you feel your very best again! Try just a spoonful of Dr. H. S. Thacher's excellent Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep, look and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Public Drug & Book Co., and all other leading druggists.—Adv.

MOVIE STARS Are using these rare powders.

By Edna Wallace Hopper
I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty helps.
But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person, to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in the movies, I use very costly powders. I have them made to my order, and they cost me $5
per box.
Our careers depend on our looks, and nothing is too costly.

But I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities, under my name.
I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best.
Now all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. There are two kinds. For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a cold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs but 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Anyone who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.
Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.—Adv.

KEEPING ACCOUNTS.

Agricultural extension workers devote some of their time to teaching farmers how to keep and analyze their farm accounts, and the farmers are quick to see the value of this work.

One such beginner in farm bookkeeping discovered at the end of his first year of careful figuring that the crops he fed to livestock brought him more money than the ones sold outright; that his method of handling his hogs was efficient; that he was getting very poor returns from his cows; and that the number of acres cultivated per man on his farm, as well as the number of acres per horse, were below average.

He remedied these faults right away. He sold some scrub cows out of his herd, replacing them with cows of good dairy records.
He re-planned his crop area, reducing it from twenty fields to nine fields of better proportion.

At the end of the second year his figures showed that the income from the farm, after paying all expenses and interest on this investment, had achieved an increase of $350 over the preceding year.

There's a lesson in this for many other farmers. There is also a lesson for a lot of folks who are not farmers. Well-planned budgets and properly kept accounts can show many an individual where the financial leaks are and where profits may be improved by normal readjustments. Carrying the idea still further, it is helpful many times to make a reckoning of one's mental and spiritual activities and, if gains in these things are falling behind possibilities, to improve them by figuring out where the waste has come in and where more profitable use of working and leisure hours may be made.

BACK TO ASIA.

Japan is said to have a new Chinese policy.
Instead of being concerned solely with commercial and industrial exploitation of China, Japan is engaged in what Yusuki Tsurumi,
in an American lecture, calls "cultural work."

That is, Japan is interesting itself in studying Chinese civilization, along with oriental civilization generally. And she is going about it somewhat as she went about studying western civilization a generation or two ago. It is a striking change. Perhaps it is indicative of a new spirit throughout Asia.

"The people of China and Japan," says Mr. Tsurumi, "are turning once more upon themselves, exploring their own resources of spirit and seeking a way to victory along paths that are linked with the glories of the past."

This does not mean military glory. Apparently the scholarly Japanese who tells about it, and cultured orientals behind him, are thinking of something quite different. Disillusioned by the mere material glories of Europe and America, they are regaining confidence in the best elements of their own civilization. They are not preaching "Asia for Asiatics" so much as preaching that Asia has things worth while for Asiatics, which will stand comparison with any values the west has to offer.

When Asiatics speak thus, they command respect among all who know anything of the world, past and present. Asia was the birthplace of civilization. It was Asia that taught Europe, in essential things. The world's religions have come out of Asia. There are still, no doubt, resources of knowledge and power in that great continent of which the west generally knows little, which have nothing to do with armed force or material success, and which might benefit the west as much as west's scientific progress can benefit the east.

MYTHICAL?

How much of what has been "proven" is really inaccurate? Long ago it was proved that parallel lines indefinitely prolonged never meet. Einstein proves they do meet. Long ago it was accepted as forever proven, that a warm gulf stream in the Atlantic ocean keeps the British Isles from being arctic in climate. Now a Frenchman "proves" there isn't any gulf stream. Nothing is certain.
There is no such thing as indisputable knowledge. Higher mathematicians can demonstrate that two plus two do not equal four.

In the closing hours of the last session of congress the democratic filibuster killed the appropriation bill providing items for administration of the bonus law. Congress has a way of passing the buck to the president. It was up to President Coolidge to find money with which to proceed to administer the bonus law. He has found it.

Senator Jones, chairman of one of the democratic campaign committees, can count 346 votes in the electoral college for Davis and Bryan. If he comes as close in predictions as the other Senator Jones used to when the other Bryan was a candidate, the republicans need not worry.

Under the new immigration law the annual quotas have been reduced from 350,000 to 162,000, and these compare with an immigration of 916,000 in 1914.

The slogan of all blocs is the quaint American phrase. "Gimme."

ALOFT.

Thoret, French aviator, remained soaring in the air over nine hours in a glider, drifting around like a sea gull. He had a motor and propeller aboard for emergency but they were sealed and not used during the gliding.

These little gliders, operated on the principle of a kite, may become "the craze" within a few years. Properly handled, a glider is about as safe as playing football. You'll own a flying machine of some sort before many years.

NO. 17—INDIAN TOBIES

So they climbed and pulled off a whole bunch of the tobies.

Now when this story begins it isn't going to have anything to do with Nancy or Nick or Mister Snip Snap.

But before it ends it is going to have a good deal to say about them.
Just you wait and see.
It's about Scamper and Scramble Squirrel who were staying with their grandparents in Maple Tree Flats so they could go to Meadow Grove School and get an education, their own house being too far away to come such a distance every day.

One Friday after school Scamper and Scramble passed an Indian toby tree. There it was, hanging all over with long brown beans that looked for all the world like cigars or tobies.

"Let's get some," said Scamper.

"Let's," agreed Scramble.

So they climbed and pulled off

a whole bunch of the tobies and stuffed them into their pockets.

Then they slid down again.

"Whatta you got?" asked Billy

Bunny, hopping up.

"Tobies," said the Squirrel boys.

"Really ones?"

"Goodness no! What do you think

Granny would say if she caught us smoking. We should say not!"

"Let's smoke 'em anyway, just for fun," said Billy. "These old things can't hurt a flea. I've smoked corn silk a lot of times."

"All right! Got any matches?"

asked Scramble.

"None, but I'll get some," said

Billy.

Billy ran into his house and got the matches and came back. He should have asked his mother, but he didn't, and that's where the trouble began. For little boys have no business with matches and his mother would have said "no."

Paul A. Lennon, who until recently has been engaged in the newspaper field in Dixon has resigned his position and accepted a position with Downing & Pruin, with whom he will start Monday morning.

Little Anna Amberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Amberg is on the sick list.

On Thursday afternoon about 15
little people called on Miss Constance Miller and spent the time from 4:30

Byron, at Jacksonville.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

Monday, Sept. 19, 1904.

The worst storm that has visited this vicinity this year and one of the heaviest rains that has ever fallen here in so short a period, occurred Saturday night. * * * The large barn of Jacob Lievan, several miles south of this city was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. * * * The barn of Walter Lievan, son of Jacob Lievian, was also destroyed.

private living rooms a year and a half ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Floto left and farms would be similar to the one he has made in the industrial when he spent long periods going through workshops and talking with the people employed in them.

Wants To See People
On these trips in the manufacturing towns of the English midlands, the prince, often remarked to his companions:

"It's the people, not the plant, that I want to see."

That, his acquaintances point out, is the dominant element in all his tours and this is held to account for his extraordinary personal popularity
—the interest that he takes in the affairs, the joys and sorrows, the work and amusement of those with whom he comes in contact.

The making of friendships and extensive acquaintances with men in all parts of the world, and a personal knowledge of conditions in foreign countries, is naturally an important element in the education of a future
king of Great Britain, his acquaintances explain. It is considered the part of the Prince of Wales to carry on the traditions of his father, George V., and his grandfather, the late Edward VII. and to become a success-his life is a very full one and he has

DAVIS SMASHED AT REPUBLICANS IN CHI. SPEECH

In Ind. Today, Plans to Carry on Fight Against G.O.P.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 19.—Having opened his Illinois campaign with a smashing attack on the republican party in an address here last night on the south side, J. W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, was prepared today to carry on in Indiana. He will speak tonight at Gary and tomorrow at South Bend and Fort Wayne.

Cheered repeatedly by a crowd estimated to be around 14,000, Mr. Davis did not mince words in assailing the record of the republican administration in the last three and one half years, and he told his audience that if this were the only issue of the campaign, he would be content to fight on that line alone with a contrast of the record of the eight years of democratic administration under Woodrow Wilson.

Not only did Mr. Davis assail the republicans on the basis of the disclosures in the senate investigation at Washington, but he went after it on the legislative records at Washington; on the failure of the world court proposal; the insistency of the administration on the Mellon tax program; the veto of the soldiers' bonus; the postal pay increase measure and the pension bill.

Moreover, the democratic presidential nominee directed many shafts at President Coolidge, emphasizing particularly what was described as "efficiency" in this campaign; the president's statement with reference to the scandals that the wonder was not that so many have failed, but that so few have fallen, and his denunciation of the senate investigation of the treasury department.

Amboy Member Court of Claims Meets With Orders

Springfield, Ill.—The state court of claims, of which W. L. Leach of Amboy is a member, which opened its September term here Tuesday, is expected by state officials to lay down the policy that state employees, who lose personal effects in fires at state institutions, shall not be reimbursed.

Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, who under the law is ex-officio secretary of the court and keeper of its records transmitted to the tribunal the claims of employees for the loss of personal effects in the fires at Dunning State Hospital last January.

One employee at Dunning listed a piano, value $250, on a claim for reimbursement following the fire. Another wanted $50 for a microscope and still another asked the state to reimburse him for $70 concealed in a mattress and destroyed by the flames.

Guido Martel, bandmaster at Joliet prison for ten years, asked $2500 of the state for the loss of music and blaze.

Claims of this sort were said to be rather unusual.

The court at its present session is to hear additional arguments on claims of the New York Central railroad and eleven other carriers operating in Illinois for a refund of $250,000 in fees paid to the old public utilities commission.

Police Needed to Get Prince Out of His Car

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Sept. 18.—The Prince of Wales paid his respects to Manhattan again today.

Arriving in the financial district this afternoon, Wales found that his plans for an afternoon of sightseeing incognito were likely to be frustrated, for thousands of persons, many of them stenographers on their lunch hour strolls, gave him a rousing welcome as he left his car.

The crowd was so great that for two minutes the prince was unable to leave his machine to keep a luncheon appointment with Harrison Williams.

Finally several policemen came to assistance and showed a path through the throng.

The prince, smoking a cigarette, appeared startled by the noisy demonstration. Ticker tapes poured upon the royal visitor from the windows of the skyscrapers.

There evidently had been no police arrangements, but four patrolmen finally forced their way to the prince and escorted him to a rear door whence he was whisked to the office of Harrison Williams on the 19th floor by special elevator. Orders were issued that only employees on that floor would be allowed in the elevators. Even newspapermen were barred.

Proper Food Will Keep Hen from Laying Slump

Champaign, Ill.—That farm hens can be kept out of a laying slump during this season of the year if they are fed with reasonable care, is shown by the records on a pen of 40 white leghorns on the farm of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, official state. The pens have just rounded out four weeks of laying with a total of 599 eggs or about 15 for each hen.

"Just now hens are naturally falling off in laying and this means that egg prices all over the country are going up. Hence the flock owner who can keep his hens laying at a chances for profits," L. E. Card, chief poultry expert of the College said.

He advocates the feeding of dry mash and animal protein during the summer months while the hens are on the range.

EABY HANGS

Worcester, Mass.—The seven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Larivee of this city hanged to death in her baby carriage recently. The baby's dress caught on a projection of the carriage straining her.

CHAPTER XXII (continued)

The splendid galleon was moored alongside, and all about her there was great bustle of preparation for departure. Porters moved up and down the gangway that connected her with the shore, carrying bales of provisions, barrels of water, kegs of gunpowder, and other necessities for the voyage, and even as Asad and his followers reached the head of that gangway four negroes were staggering down it under the load of a huge palmetto balm that was slung from staves yoked to their shoulders.

On the poop stood Sak-el-Bahr with Othman, Ali, Jasper-Reis, and some other officers. Up and down the gangway paced Larocque and Vignello, two renegade boatswains, one French and the other Italian, who had sailed with him on every voyage for the past two years. Larocque was superintending the loading of the vessel, bawling his orders for the bestowal of provisions here, of water yonder, and of powder about the mainmast. Vignello was making a final inspection of the slaves at the oars.

As the palmetto balm was brought aboard, Larocque shouted the mainmast. But here Sak-el-Bahr interfered, bidding them, instead, to bring it up to the stern and place it in the poop-house.

Asad had dismounted, and stood with Marzak at his side at the head of the gangway when the youth finally begged his father himself to take command of this expedition, allowing him to come as his lieutenant and so learn the ways of the sea.

Asad looked at him curiously, but answered nothing. He went aboard, Marzak and the others following him. It was at this moment that Sak-el-Bahr first became aware of the Basha's presence, and he came instantly forward to do the honors of his galley. If there was a sudden uneasiness in his heart his face was calm and his glance as arrogant and steady as ever.

"May the peace of Allah overshadow thee and thy house, O mighty Asad," was his greeting. "We are on the point of casting off, and I shall sail the more securely for thy blessing."

Asad considered him with eyes of wonder. So much effrontery, so much ease after their last scene together seemed to the Basha a thing incredible, unless, indeed, it were accompanied by a conscience entirely at peace.

"It has been proposed to me that I shall do more than bless this expedition—that I shall command it," he answered, watching Sak-el-Bahr closely.

He observed the sudden flicker of the corsair's eyes, the only outward sign of his inward dismay.

"Command it?" echoed Sak-el-Bahr. "Twice proposed to thee?"

And he laughed lightly as it to dismiss that suggestion.

That laugh was a tactical error. It spurred Asad. He advanced slowly along the vessel's waist-deck to the mainmast—for he was rigged with main and foremast. There he halted again to look into the face of Sak-el-Bahr who stepped aside beside him.

"Why didst thou laugh?" he questioned shortly.

"Why? At the folly of such a proposal," said Sak-el-Bahr in haste, too much in haste to seek a diplomatic answer.

Darker grew the Basha's frown.

"Folly?" quoth he. "Wherein lies the folly?"

Sak-el-Bahr made haste to cover his mistake.

"In the suggestion that such poor quarry as waits us should be worthy thine endeavor, should warrant the Lion of the Faith to unsheathe his mighty claws. Thou," he continued with ringing scorn, "thou, the inspirer of a hundred glorious fights in which whole fleets have been engaged, to take the seas upon so trivial an errand—one galleon to swoop upon a single galley of Spain! It were unworthy thy great name, beneath the dignity of thy valor!" and by a gesture he contemptuously dismissed the subject.

But Asad continued to ponder him with cold eyes, his face inscrutable.

"Why, here's a change since yesterday," he said.

"A change, my lord?"

"But yesterday in the marketplace thyself didst urge me to join this expedition and to command it." Asad reminded him, speaking with deliberate emphasis. "Thyself invoked the memory of the days that are gone, when scimitar in hand we charged side by side aboard the infidel, and thou didst beseech me to engage again beside thee. And now—"

He spread his hands, anger gathered in his eyes.

"Whence this change?" he demanded sternly.

Sak-el-Bahr hesitated, caught in his own toils. He looked away from Asad a moment; he had a glimpse of the handsome flushed face of Marzak at his father's elbow, of Blakaine, Tsamanni, and the others all staring at him in amazement, and even of some grimy sunburned faces from the rowers' bench on his left that were looking on with dull curiosity.

He smiled, seeming outwardly to remain entirely untroubled.

"Why—it is that I have come to perceive thy reasons for refusing. For the rest, it is as I say—the quarry is not worthy of the hunter."

Marzak uttered a soft, sneering laugh, as if the true reason of the corsair's attitude were quite clear to him. He fancied, too, and he was right in this, that Sak-el-Bahr's odd attitude had accomplished what persuasions addressed to Asad-ed-Din might to the end have failed to accomplish—had afforded him the sign he was come to seek.

For it was in that moment that Asad determined to take command himself.

"It almost seems," he said slowly, smiling, "as if thou didst not want me. If so, it is unfortunate; for I have long neglected my duty to my son, and I am resolved at last to repair that error. We accompany thee upon this expedition, Sak-el-Bahr. Myself I will command."

Asad looked at him curiously, but answered nothing. He went aboard, Marzak and the others following him. It was at this moment that Sak-el-Bahr first became aware of the Basha's presence, and he came instantly forward to do the honors of his galley. If there was a sudden uneasiness in his heart his face was calm and his glance as arrogant and steady as ever.

Sak-el-Bahr made haste to cover his mistake.

"In the suggestion that such poor quarry as waits us should be worthy thine endeavor, should warrant the Lion of the Faith to unsheathe his mighty claws. Thou," he continued with ringing scorn, "thou, the inspirer of a hundred glorious fights in which whole fleets have been engaged, to take the seas upon so trivial an errand—one galleon to swoop upon a single galley of Spain! It were unworthy thy great name, beneath the dignity of thy valor!" and by a gesture he contemptuously dismissed the subject.

But Asad continued to ponder him with cold eyes, his face inscrutable.

"Why, here's a change since yesterday," he said.

"A change, my lord?"

"But yesterday in the marketplace thyself didst urge me to join this expedition and to command it." Asad reminded him, speaking with deliberate emphasis. "Thyself invoked the memory of the days that are gone, when scimitar in hand we charged side by side aboard the infidel, and thou didst beseech me to engage again beside thee. And now—"

He spread his hands, anger gathered in his eyes.

"Whence this change?" he demanded sternly.

Sak-el-Bahr hesitated, caught in his own toils. He looked away from Asad a moment; he had a glimpse of the handsome flushed face of Marzak at his father's elbow, of Blakaine, Tsamanni, and the others all staring at him in amazement, and even of some grimy sunburned faces from the rowers' bench on his left that were looking on with dull curiosity.

He smiled, seeming outwardly to remain entirely untroubled.

"Why—it is that I have come to perceive thy reasons for refusing. For the rest, it is as I say—the quarry is not worthy of the hunter."

Marzak uttered a soft, sneering laugh, as if the true reason of the corsair's attitude were quite clear to him. He fancied, too, and he was right in this, that Sak-el-Bahr's odd attitude had accomplished what persuasions addressed to Asad-ed-Din might to the end have failed to accomplish—had afforded him the sign he was come to seek.

For it was in that moment that Asad determined to take command himself.

"It almost seems," he said slowly, smiling, "as if thou didst not want me. If so, it is unfortunate; for I have long neglected my duty to my son, and I am resolved at last to repair that error. We accompany thee upon this expedition, Sak-el-Bahr. Myself I will command."

Asad looked at him curiously, but answered nothing. He went aboard, Marzak and the others following him. It was at this moment that Sak-el-Bahr first became aware of the Basha's presence, and he came instantly forward to do the honors of his galley. If there was a sudden uneasiness in his heart his face was calm and his glance as arrogant and steady as ever.

"May the peace of Allah overshadow thee and thy house, O mighty Asad," was his greeting. "We are on the point of casting off, and I shall sail the more securely for thy blessing."

Asad considered him with eyes of wonder. So much effrontery, so much ease after their last scene together seemed to the Basha a thing incredible, unless, indeed, it were accompanied by a conscience entirely at peace.

"It has been proposed to me that I shall do more than bless this expedition—that I shall command it," he answered, watching Sak-el-Bahr closely.

He observed the sudden flicker of the corsair's eyes, the only outward sign of his inward dismay.

"Command it?" echoed Sak-el-Bahr. "Twice proposed to thee?"

And he laughed lightly as it to dismiss that suggestion.

That laugh was a tactical error. It spurred Asad. He advanced slowly along the vessel's waist-deck to the mainmast—for he was rigged with main and foremast. There he halted again to look into the face of Sak-el-Bahr who stepped aside beside him.

"Why didst thou laugh?" he questioned shortly.

"Why? At the folly of such a proposal," said Sak-el-Bahr in haste, too much in haste to seek a diplomatic answer.

Darker grew the Basha's frown.

"Folly?" quoth he. "Wherein lies the folly?"

Sak-el-Bahr made haste to cover his mistake.

"In the suggestion that such poor quarry as waits us should be worthy thine endeavor, should warrant the Lion of the Faith to unsheathe his mighty claws. Thou," he continued with ringing scorn, "thou, the inspirer of a hundred glorious fights in which whole fleets have been engaged, to take the seas upon so trivial an errand—one galleon to swoop upon a single galley of Spain! Boys Can Make Spending Money With Mushrooms
Springfield, Ill.—Pocket money for boys in Illinois is obtainable through the raising of mushrooms for commercial purposes. Dr. A. R. Crook, curator of the State Museum, says. He points out that with little care, mushrooms will grow satisfactorily in any unused cellar, cave, or in the abandoned mines in Illinois.
"Almost any florist can furnish information about where to get the spawn and how to prepare the beds," Dr. Crook said, "but I would advise anyone who contemplates raising mushrooms, to get the free government bulletins which have been written on the subject. Almost any library would have these bulletins."

Lucy Henrietta Lewis, 19, of Newcometown, O., is a shifting example of the way to make the best of things as they are. A year ago she lost both feet in an auto accident. Since that time, walking on the most beautiful artificial feet it was possible for an orthopedic expert to fashion, she has graduated from high school and taken a job as an automobile salesman. She demonstrated autos and in the fall will enter business school to fit herself to earn her own living. "I had always wanted beautiful feet," says Lucy, "and now I've got them."

or would be able to get them.
"Mushrooms grow very rapidly under favorable conditions, as much as 50 pounds of good edible plants having been produced in a month in a bed 10 feet square. These sell at 75 cents to $1.25 a pound, depending on the grade.
"Ideal conditions for raising mushrooms require a damp cool atmosphere, a fairly well ventilated chamber, and a decomposed material, such as decaying leaves, in which to plant the spawn. Spawn is planted about an inch below the surface of the decaying material and then the whole bed is covered with about an inch of good loam soil. Mushrooms grow continuously the year round.
"At present there is little cultivation of mushrooms in Illinois as far as I know, but I see no reason why they would not grow here with proper care.
Three mushroom beds have already been started at the St. Charles School for Boys, and have proven profitable as well as interesting, according to officials of the school. One of the beds, measuring 15 by 40 feet, produces 16 pounds of fine, edible mushrooms every other day, they say.

3,000 New Students Expected at U. of I. for This Term.

Urbana, Ill.—Traditions of the Illinois customs observed on the campus of the University of Illinois by all registered students will soon be passed on to the 3,000 new students who are expected to enter the school this year.
Illinois has a number of traditions, according to the upperclassmen and alumni. The keynote is always "democracy." The aim of the upper class men is to make the newcomers feel that they are a part of the Illinois—the Illinois referring to the University, the student body, the alumni and all things pertaining to campus life.
"Hello, boys," the traditional campus salutation will be heard again. It is customary on the university campus for passing groups of students or individuals to exchange the greeting, "Hello, boys," whether they are personally acquainted or not. If one student passes two others on the campus and he knows one but not the other, his salutation will be "Hello, boys. Hello Smith."
"Hazing" has little or no part in campus life. Initiations ceremonies are conducted by fraternities but new students are not forced to submit to "hazing."

"The boneyard," a campus institution at one time played an important part in the lives of freshmen. The "boneyard" is a drainage ditch running through the campus and many new students were thrown in the muddy waters by the classmen above them. This practice was discontinued some years ago although the "boneyard" still remains. It is said to be so called because a number of bones, believed to be relics of a herd of buffalo, were found when the ditch was excavated.
Tradition rules that there will be no smoking on the campus and this unwritten rule is rigidly adhered to by the students.
Freshmen stand out from the rest of the student body because of the "spot" or "postage stamp." The "spot" is a small green skull cap that is worn by the first year students at all times. In the winter, a green toque takes the place of the "spot." "Cap burning" when the freshmen discard their badge of station, takes place in the spring. Colored buttons or colored tassels on the skull caps or toques indicate the college of the wearer. Red is for the engineering college, purple for the agricultural college, yellow for the school of commerce and white for the college of liberal arts.

RADICAL CHANGES IN RULES GOVERN YEAR'S FOOTBALLMany New Rules Will Be in Effect During Coming Season.

New York—Several radical changes in football rules, decided upon last winter by gridiron authorities, will be in effect during the coming season which gets into full swing the end of September.

Chief among changes are those abolishing kicking tees, barring "passive interference," on the screen pass, shifting the try-point from the five to the three-yard line and other alterations designed to speed up the game.

A summary of changes follows:

In Rule 1, Section 3, the committee has added its approval to the so-called "offside" goal posts so that either straight line posts or offsets are legal.

In Rule 3, Section 3, there is an amendment to the generally increasing complaint that certain stiff shoulder guards and protectors were dangerous. The committee has legislated that shoulder guards must be padded outside as well as inside and cleats must not be dangerously sharp, and has urged all officials to relentlessly enforce every phase of the rule relating to equipment.

Under Rule 6 comes the elimination of the "all time" rule, which has been a source of contention. A player may hold the ball on the ground for the kicker. The ball is now kicked off from the middle of the field instead of from the 40-yard line. Section 9 has been altered so that any part of the player's person being out of bounds counts just the same as the foot.

Under Rule 9 the committee has practically placed shift plays in the hands of officials by legislating that players must come to an absolute stop and remain stationary in their new positions sufficiently long to prevent any doubt in the minds of the officials as to the legality of the play.

Rule 10—The 5-yard line has been changed to the 3-yard line on a try-point after touch down.

To Speed Up Game

In Rule 14 is the evidence of the committee's desire to speed up the game and prevent unnecessary and unreasonable delays. The official may arbitrarily call time whenever he thinks a team is unreasonably delaying putting the ball in play and may warn them or penalize them. In the case of calling of time for substitutions or for other reasons which appear to the official to be with the intent of lengthening the game, he may instruct the timekeeper not to stop the watch but let time run on. Captains may now ask that time be called four times in each half, but the penalty for a greater number of requests has been increased to five yards.

In Rule 16 the screening of the forward pass has been checked by a ruling that ineligible players must keep out of the way of the players of the side which is to make the pass. Those who are liable to a penalty for interfering with the defensive side's opportunity to reach the ball. The field judge and umpire both are to watch violations under Section 3.

Rule 17 puts a stop to the receiver of the forward pass running out of bounds and then coming back into the field of play to receive the pass. Under the same rule the lost yard penalty remaining in the book has been changed to 15 yards, namely, intentionally throwing a forward pass to the ground. It has been made legal to decline the penalty on a forward pass.

Rule 18 finishes up the entire matter relating to outside kicks. If a kicked ball crosses the scrimmage line, no one of the kicker's side can touch or recover the ball until it has touched an opponent or any man may recover a kicked ball which has not crossed the line of scrimmage.

Rule 23, Section 3—A foul committed behind the goal line which does not involve change of possessions of the ball is penalized one-half distance to the goal line from the spot where the ball was put in play. Section 11 has been expanded by the instruction to the referee that he shall explain alternate penalties to the captain or the offended team.

Rule 24—The referee alone shall have a whistle, but a pistol is recommended to the timekeepers to notify the referee of the expiration of time.

Iowa Man Only Pitcher
Without Single Defeat

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19.—Pitt Mossman, of Eldora, Iowa, today was the only undefeated contestant in the men's professional class when play was resumed in the National Pitching Tournament.

He ran his record to 16 straight victories in yesterday's competition. Twenty-two players remained in the men's amateur class and this field will be narrowed down to ten today.

Hagen and Barnes in Semi-Finals this P. M.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
French Lick, Ind., Sept. 19.—Walter Hagen, New York British open champion, playing with Ray Derr of Philadelphia, a newcomer in championship golf, and Jim Barnes of New York, formerly national open champion, won today's match with Larry Nabholz, Lima, Ohio, another youngster, made up the two semi-final matches in the National Professional golf championship at French Lick today.

PIRATES, ROBINS
IN DEATH-BATTLE;
CUBS MEET GIANTSPennant Races Narrowing
Down to Crucial Last Ten Days.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

An amazing Tiger crouches low in his western cave today, awaiting the invasion of a Yankee foe. His tail bandaged thrice from Quaker wounds, paw zealously guarding a frail pennant thread already worn almost beyond repair, the Bengal will fight for the honor of the west.

Pittsburgh and Brooklyn will play the leading role in a drama today which will be tragic to one or the other.

Washington and New York, in full view of the wire, are staging a mad dash down the American League stretch. Detroit is struggling to keep up, but slowly its cause is becoming hopeless. It must squelch a Yankee invader or accept defeat. Just as merciless is the pace which is being set in the National League. New York, with Brooklyn right on the heels half a length behind.

Giants Split Even.

The Giants, yesterday had their hair parted by the Cincinnati Reds, dividing a doubleheader, losing the first game 5-3, but coming back under the wire first in the nightcap 7-5. Brooklyn battling frantically to overtake that meager lead gained by the Giants advanced to within half game of the 1923 champions, by winning twice from St. Louis 7-5 and 4-2.

Pittsburgh today still two and a half games behind the lead was only able to break even with the Phillies yesterday, dropping the first section of its double header 6-5 but winning the second 6-3.

Chicago, and Boston, both hopelessly out of the swim, split even in their two sessions, the Cubs yanking the first game out of the fire in 11 innings, 4-3, but the Braves copping the concluding act, 3-1.

Yankees Scored Victory

New York Yankee fans are thanking Joe Bush for a victory in St. Louis yesterday. The Yankee drove into the ninth inning trailing by a lone tally when Bush slapped a home run tag on one of Wingerd's scattered hits and knotted the game, the easterners emerging victorious in the first extra inning 2-1.

Washington made it three straight from Cleveland by winning the final game of the series 5-3. The Philadelphia Athletics, almost lamed out of Detroit, cause by winning a third straight victory from the Bengals 5-3. In the other American League game the Chicago White Sox topped the Boston Red Sox 7-3.

The complexion of both races is likely to undergo a decided change after the series at Detroit and Brooklyn are completed. One or the other in each series must totter.

Autumn Rally Day in the Bible School Sunday, with each class attempting to realize the attendance of its full enrollment. The summer has witnessed the least fluctuation in Bible School attendance the church has had for a long time, and this rally is expected to mark the beginning of a new forward advance in the school.

The morning sermon by the minister, "The Vine and the Branches," will relate to the fact of church membership, its purpose, conditions, and blessings.

In the afternoon the Third Annual Every-Member canvass of the members will be made by twenty-two men and women. L. W. Emmert, Mrs. S. K. Myers, Miss Florence Nettz, W. F. Cunningham and O. D. Plankman are the committee that has arranged the work this year, for what promises to be the most successful canvass the church has ever had. Members will remain at home in the afternoon until the canvassers reach them, which will be between the hours of 2 and 5.

M., on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1924, and will be publicly opened by the Mayor of said City, who is also President of said Board at a meeting of said Board to be held in the Council Chambers in the City Hall in said City of Dixon, at said hour of 8:30 o'clock on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1924.

Said bids shall be opened by the President of the Board of Local Improvements in the presence of a majority of said Board and shall remain on file in the office of said Board open for public inspection for at least 48 hours before an award of said contract is made to any competitive bidder. After the expiration of said 48 hours as above stated, said Board shall meet and award the same to the most advantageous bidder for the city and publicly declare the same.

The work for which said tenders are invited is for the construction of 620 lin. ft. 18" sanitary sewers; 880 lin. ft. 15" sanitary sewers; 2030 lin. ft. 12" sanitary sewers; 1960 lin. ft. 10" sanitary sewers; 8370 lin. ft. 8" sanitary sewers; 5500 lin. ft. 6" sanitary service laterals; all sanitary sewers to be No. 1 vitrified tile pipe laid with oakum and cement mortar joints in place; 37-4" sanitary manholes with 20-3" storm water manholes; 75 storm water curb inlets 22"x32"x14", 8" brick walls, 4" concrete bottom and 18"x36" cast iron grate covers; 1 concrete outlet head wall (1 1/2 cu. yds.).

Each bid for the improvement must be accompanied by a certified check or cash for an amount not less than ten per cent of the aggregate of such proposals. All certified checks must be drawn on some responsible bank and payable to the order of the said President of said board in his official capacity. No bids will be considered unless accompanied by such certified check or cash.

Said cash or certified check will be held by said board until all bids have been canvassed and the contract has been awarded and signed. The return of such check or cash to the successful bidder being conditioned upon his appearance within two days after having been notified of the award having been made to him or them accompanied by his or their bondsmen and executing a contract with said board for the completion of the work so awarded and giving a bond satisfactory to the Board of Local Improvements of said City of Dixon in a sum equal to one-third of the amount of such bid, with sureties to be approved by the President of said Board of said City, which bond shall provide that the contractor shall well and faithfully perform and execute said work in all respects according to the detailed and complete specifications and full and complete drawings, prepared and made therefor, and according to the time and terms and conditions of said contract and also that such bidder or contractor shall promptly pay all debts, incurred by the bidder or contractor in the prosecution of said work, including those for labor and materials furnished and all bids and proposals shall contain an offer to furnish such bond upon the acceptance of such bid and proposal.

All proposals must be made on blanks which will be furnished by the City Clerk of said City.

Payment for the work for which said tenders are invited is to be made in cash or bonds, payable when the contract is completed and the work accepted by the Board of Local Improvements of the City of Dixon.

Bonds to draw interest at six per cent per annum. No bid will be considered unless the party making it shall furnish evidence satisfactory to the Board of Local Improvements of the City of Dixon of his experience and ability in this class of work, and that he can control sufficient capital to enable him to successfully prosecute the same in case the contract shall be awarded to him.

Bidders will examine the ordinance, maps, plans, profiles and specifications and also the locality of said work and judge for themselves of all the circumstances and surrounding conditions affecting the cost and nature of said work. Specifications, maps, plans, profiles and ordinance aforesaid are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City of Dixon. The person to whom the contract for the construction of said improvement is awarded shall before the comment of work under such contract provide ample, suitable and valid insurance policies to provide against and pay all claims for injury to persons or property arising under the laws of the State of Illinois in the prosecution of said work.

The Board of Local Improvements of the City of Dixon reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated at Dixon, Illinois, this 19th day of September, A. D. 1924.

The Well-Dressed Man
By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Cross-Striped Shirt

Runs the olden jingle, with a modern twist: "Think naught is a trifle, though small it may appear; small sands make the mountain; half one per cent is beer." Style is an affair of seemingly unimportant variations, because the general cut of men's clothes, unlike women's is fixed by custom and tradition, and men, again unlike women, are so encrusted with their old habits, that they will not accept any radical departures. This applies especially to shirts of which little is seen when worn under the waistcoat and which do not appreciably change in character, but only in color.

During the last two or three seasons there has been a noticeable trend toward the revival of the cross-striped shirt bosom. It was high in vogue some twenty years ago when the dandy flourished in his prime. To-day, the dandy, as a type, is virtually extinct. He has been shouldered aside by The Well-Dressed Man, who puts his mind on his clothes, but does not keep them in his mind.

The cross-striped shirt, sketched here, has a short, "set-in," one-stud bosom made of starched madras with the collar and cuffs to match. The body of the garment is in a harmonizing or contrasting color. This combination, reminiscent of the old "patch" bosom is new and smart and certain to be accepted as one of the season's outstanding fashions among men who like to dress ahead of the crowd and the calendar. You may choose plain stripes, or two-tone stripes or cluster stripes in many different effects, all extending cross-wise. The collar to match is sometimes made in two shapes, one with blunt corners and the other with pointed tips. The cuffs are decidedly rounded off. A startling innovation is the wing collar, also made to match the bosom of this shirt.

As a rule, the cross-striped bosom is most becoming to the tall, lean figure as it seems to give it an appearance of greater breadth. It does not look so well on the short, thickset, round-faced man, because he needs length, not width. In selecting cravats to go with the cross-striped shirt, be sure that they are either plain, diagonally striped or figured. A cross-striped scarf over a cross-striped shirt spoils the whole effect, as does a cravat which is too vivid in hue.

Compton Women's Club Held First Meet of Year

Compton—Miss Esther Danner who has been visiting Miss Frieda Kutter left for Carthage Sunday where she will continue her studies at the Carthage college.

Mrs. Lizzie Buck was home from Plano for an over Sunday visit.

J. Fox and family motored to Mt. Vernon Sunday where Miss Helen Fox will remain and attend Cornell college.

E. A. Bennett was here from Tampico Tuesday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bennett.

Donald Cole, Miss Fay Butler and Forest Merriman who are attending the DeKalb normal school were home over the week end.

The Compton Women's Club held their first meeting of the year in the school building. Two interesting papers were read by Mrs. Jesse Fox and Mrs. Ruby Miller. Following the business meeting and social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Tribbett and Mrs. Chaon.

Mrs. Mary Eddy and daughter, Estella who have been spending a couple of months visiting with home friends here started on their return trip to Los Angeles Saturday where they spent the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Banks.

Mr. Harrod and son Howard from near Chicago, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends here.

The writer enjoyed a visit Monday afternoon with Mrs. James W. Swisher (nee, Mary E. Howell) a former resident of Compton but whose home is now in Breckenridge, Colo. Some interesting facts were related which may be of interest to those who will remember her. Her home was what is now the hospital building and was the second house built in our village. She taught the first school in Compton, teaching it in her own home about fifty years ago. Mrs. Swisher has from time to time written articles for publication and at one time was correspondent for the Paw Paw Herald published in the early days of Paw Paw. Mrs. Swisher loves to read as in former years and keeps posted on top of the day and several well and preserved at the near approach to her 80th birthday. She at present is stopping with Mrs. Ellen Hyde, having spent the summer in traveling and visiting former acquaintances.—E. L. M.

Municipal League Will

Meet in Chicago, Oct. 16

Urbana—The Illinois Municipal League will hold its annual convention October 16 and 17 at the new American Exposition Palace, Chicago. A. D. McLarty, secretary, announced today. About 500 mayors and city and village officials are expected to attend he stated.

"Among the special subjects to be considered at the convention," Mr. McLarty said, "are, 'the relation of the business man and his responsibilities to his municipal officials' and 'The revision of the Illinois Local Improvement or Special Assessment Law.'"

"The convention dates coincide with those of the second week of the Illinois Products Exposition, to be held in the same building, thus enabling delegates to attend both the convention and the exposition in one trip. Special excursion rates of one and one third fare for the round trip will be offered by all railroads in Illinois."

Mayor Dever of Chicago and President W. R. Dawes of the Chicago Association of Commerce will make addresses of welcome. Mayor N. Crabtree of Jacksonville, president of the League will deliver the response, according to Mr. McLarty.

Salary of Freeport's

Mayor is Cut in Half

Freeport, Ill.—By unanimous vote the city council recently decided to reduce the salary of the mayor from $2,400 a year to $1,000 a year, as it was before April 1923.

The increase was adopted on the eve of the city election of that year because the council's action brought criticism from some persons the mayor at that time, A. N. Stephan, never collected the increased salary, but continued to draw $1,000 a year.

His successor, the present mayor, Oscar Melom, did likewise and it was with his approval the ordinance to reduce the salary to $1,000 a year, was adopted.

IN AFRICA
by W. Robert Foran

BEHIND HERE TODAY

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombassa, the gateway of British East Africa, and then make the railroad journey to the first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains, 288 miles from the coast. With Colonel Roosevelt are his son, Kermit, and three major members of his staff—Major Edgar A. Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Allen Leach. Incredible good luck comes to the rifles of Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit during the first two weeks of their return. They spend some time at Nairobi and Kilibe and then start on their first prolonged safari across the "thirst belt" in South. The procession of porters, gun-bearers, personal servants and grooms is fully a quarter of a mile long.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The first five days' shooting in the Sotik had brought fourteen or more animals to Theodore Roosevelt's own gun, to say nothing of those that fell to Kermit's or those of the three naturalists.

Colonel Roosevelt had shot only animals that were wanted for the museum or for food, although a great many more could have been killed if it had been so desired. But nothing was ever wantonly shot or butchered during the whole course of that expedition in Africa. Included in the colonel's bag were a lioness, a hyena, a zebra and a nine-foot python, a warthog, two elands, two topi, two mit had killed two cheetah and a lion, amongst other animals.

It was during these six weeks that Colonel Roosevelt had some of his most interesting adventures, and as the days progressed the collection of specimens assumed gigantic proportions. Before they finally left the Sotik country for Saigai-Sai farm on Lake Naivasha, they had added to the first five days' list no less than three giraffe, six or more topi, six rhinos, three cheetahs, and four lions and lionesses.

In forwarding some more home mail out to Theodore Roosevelt, I had told him that I was leaving, according to prearranged plans, for Entebbe in Uganda; also that Williams, who had been a fellow-guest at McMillan's Julia farm, had been badly mauled by a lion which he had mortally wounded and had then charged him, and that a man named Baker, whom he had also met, had been killed by an elephant; and, finally, that I was going out on a lion hunt at Lake Naivasha before proceeding to Uganda.

My Masai runner brought me back the following letter from Colonel Roosevelt, written from one of the camps in the Sotik country:

July 1st, 1909.

"Dear Foran:

I suppose you will be gone when this reaches Naivasha, but send it on the off chance. I hope you got your lion, and that you will thoroughly enjoy your Nyanza trip. I am very sorry to hear about Williams; and have held him up as an awful—and much needed—example to Kermit. I am even more sorry to hear about poor Mrs. Baker's husband.

Always yours,

Theodore Roosevelt."

Many amusing letters were being received by Colonel Roosevelt from unknown correspondents from all over America, and even from Europe. One man wrote to Colonel Roosevelt to protest against his shooting such harmless and beautiful creatures as rhinoceros. When Colonel Roosevelt read this letter, he remarked to me:

"I should just like the writer to be turned loose in a high-walled enclosure with one of these 'harmless and beautiful' creatures! I think he would quickly change his mind about both qualities."

Colonel Roosevelt and his party

came into camp at Saigai-Sai farm, on the southern shores of Lake Naivasha, on July 12, for a hippopotamus hunt.

CHAPTER IX

Hippopotamus Hunting at Saigai-Sai

THE expedition had arrived at Saigai-Sai, a fine farm that belonged to Commander Frederick Attenborough, R. N., and his brother, on July 12, after a most wonderfully successful shooting trip in the Sotik country and on the Loletia Plains.

It had been a very hard trek during the last two days of the journey house. The tents of the European personnel of the expedition had been placed in a long line, facing the gorgeous beauty of Lake Naivasha, while over Colonel Roosevelt's tent lazily floated the inevitable American flag.

After lunch Tarlton and I went off to shoot owls for Mearns, and we managed to secure some rare and fine specimens which greatly delighted the doctor. After tea, I accompanied Loring when he went out to set his traps for small mammals.

Just as the sun was dipping to meet the western horizon over the placid waters of the lake, Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit and Cunningham returned to camp after an unsuccessful day's hunt after hippo.

"Hullo, old Africa!" he shouted to me, as I approached the landing stage to welcome him. "We had no luck today. We saw two hippo in deep water, and hit them both; but we must have missed the brain, for we lost them."

"Father hit his in the head, at a distance of a hundred yards," Kermit interposed, ruefully. "But he did not get much chance of a good down to Lake Naivasha, owing to the absence of water at the first camping-place. In consequence of this shortage of an absolute necessity, the march had continued during the night with barely a stop, except for brief rests en route, until Saigai-Sai farm had been reached.

The huge tent-town of the expedition was pitched in a truly ideal spot. They had selected an open stretch of grassland, which was surrounded on all sides by acacia-thorn trees and thorny scrub. One hundred and fifty yards away was the lake, bordered by thick papyrus reeds and dense bushes of long thorns. The scrub and papyrus reeds were cut up in all directions by hippopotamus tracks.

The chattering of apes in the trees and the shrill but tuneful twitter of bird-talk, combined with the gentle lap of the waters of the lake, alone disturbed the serenity of that peaceful scene.

Healer was engaged upon the great task of preparing the head and hide of a giant hippopotamus, which Kermit had killed on July 14. Tarlton was soon working strenuously over the issuance of stores to the porters and superintending the erection of a grass-thatched hut for the accommodation of Dawson and myself.

They all looked very bronzed and well, and they were full of stories of the wonderful experiences that had befallen them in the Sotik country. We lunched together in the welcome shade of a roomy grass-thatched shed that had been erected as a mess

Tried to Mob Premier.

Paris, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press).—Premier Herriot of France narrowly escaped injury in Marseilles last night when 200 communists, swinging canes and sticks and shouting "amnesty" made a determined effort to surround and mob the premier in the Rue Cannetiere, the main thoroughfare of the southern city. Members of the premiers party disclosed today on his arrival here.

M. Herriot was rescued only after the police, who arrived belatedly on the scene, had forced back the communists and dispersed the gathering.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN WEST BROOKLYN BY CORRESPONDENT

Many Newsy Items of Happenings in That Vicinity.

West Brooklyn—Earl White and Dr. E. C. White drove to Champaign Monday where Earl has enrolled as a student for the coming term.

The ball team won another game over the Dixon K. C. team Sunday afternoon by the score of 8 to 3. The game was well played and the boys deserve much credit for the improvement which they are making. They are getting ready for another game with Sublette a week from Sunday.

Mrs. Albert Gehant was much worried Sunday morning when she lost the diamond set from her ring on the way to church. Many volunteers assisted in looking for the lost gem which was found before the day ended.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dukes welcomed a baby girl to their home Tuesday.

There will be a dance in the opera house Friday the 26th with music by an orchestra from Peru.

Henry S. Jeannet was down from Dixon Monday and spent the day with his sister, Mrs. Mary Graf as well as many other friends and acquaintances.

V. M. Shepard was here from the St. Paul stock yards looking up the prospects of putting in several car loads of feeders among our farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogard and son Clifford were down from Dixon Sunday and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Gander.

Many of our citizens drove to Mendota Monday afternoon where they witnessed the auto races. Merle Elme, one of our residents was one of the contestants and made a mad race for the money considering that he only had a common touring car and came in fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas were here from Sterling and spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bernardi who were old neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gaumer drove to Harmon Sunday where they visited at the home of his brother, Samuel Gaumer.

Frank Delbatal and son Walter drove to Rochelle Tuesday where the latter is having some treating done at the hospital.

Henry F. Gehant received a long letter from Bud Halsey from Blunt, S. D. in which he reports crops looking fine and wishes to be remembered to all his old West Brooklyn friends. Bud is now running a filling station on the corner of his farm which is bounded by two main auto trails.

W. F. Graves was over from Ambloy Monday calling on business men. Mr. Graves is preparing to quit the hardware store soon.

a year was in town again Tuesday and received many contributions.

Frank Clayton was over from near Scarborough Tuesday transacting business with his tenant Joseph Vernier. Mr. Clayton intends occupying his own place the coming year.

Charles Hill was down from Dixon Wednesday on business for the threshing machine company which he represents.

Life in a small town is worth living after all when you consider that we were able to witness the three airmen making the last lap of their round the world trip. They passed over town about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday and will have won their race when they reach California.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Gehant spent Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Glasier in the vicinity of Harmon.

The ladies of the Domestic Science club held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward Henry Wednesday.

M. E. Long and Adolph Barlow of Ambloy drove to Mendota Tuesday where they entered some of their fine chickens in the fair exhibits.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Dingler were here the latter part of the week and visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bernardi.

Mrs. Mary Johnson entertained her son Opie and Miss Anderson Friday while they were enroute to visit friends in Missouri.

Lawrence Kaiser was here from near Sublette Wednesday in quest of a farm to rent.

Mrs. M. T. Broffie was over from Inlet Friday calling on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Amel Henry drove down from Dixon the middle of the week and visited old friends and neighbors.

Peter Blackburn and daughter Miss Gertrude were here from Harmon Wednesday and visited at the homes of relatives.

L. D. Pettinger was here from Steward Saturday transacting business.

George Mason was up from Peru Sunday purchasing garden truck from the George Montavon farm.

The contractor is making fine progress in the building of the bridge at the John Derr corner and it is hoped will soon be in readiness for the gravel which will soon start now that the crusher has been set up at the Adolph Chaon pit.

James T. Hood was here from Mendota Wednesday having his bonus blank filled out. Any veterans who have not as yet filed theirs can do so by calling at the bank with their discharge papers. They will be pleased to assist you.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris July drove to Pontiac Thursday where Chris purchased some repairs for the threshing outfit.

Henry Zinke and George Passig drove to the Nehergail farm near Paw Paw Saturday where they purchased some dairy cows.

Frank Cooper was over from Ambloy one day this week visiting his sister, Mrs. Martha Youm who is recovering nicely.

The Foresters held their annual election of officers at their meeting Thursday evening. The same officers were re-elected with the exception of speaker which office was bestowed on Anton Sondgeroth.

Merle Pine had a brother from the south here visiting with him for a few days last week.

L. W. Griffith was over from Ambloy looking after the sowing of Grimm alfalfa upon some of the farms in this locality.

Zina Fairchild and William Kuglenhaugh were over from Mulligins Grove Saturday calling upon friends.

Defense Test Day was quite fitting. It was observed in West Brooklyn by our citizens and the committee in charge of the day's affairs were quite well pleased to see so many flags displayed throughout the day both our business houses and the homes. An excellent program was arranged for by Postmaster E. C. White which was rendered in the evening at 8 o'clock.

The president of the village board was in charge of the program as chairman and in a few words explained the reason for the entertainment being provided. The local band played several patriotic selections which were intermingled with their usual concert numbers and, in between these renditions, were given two vocal duets by Prof. F. J. Morrissey and C. P. Henkel and an address by Rev. Chas. H. Quinn. The address was very good and no one could have heard it without feeling more patriotic towards his country than ever before. Father Quinn reminded every one of his duty toward his country and asked them to always bear in mind that "Right or wrong" this was their country. Anyone missing his country missed a real treat.

It was most pleasing to see such a large crowd in attendance and in our humble opinion West Brooklyn has made a splendid start toward the annual recognition to be given the day.

George Hicks was a business caller here from Lee Center Saturday.

The residents south of the railroad have been having several meetings at the village hall this week trying to arrive at some plan for draining their cellars. If the plan goes through an 18-inch outlet tile will be laid from the road in front of Joe Kuehna's to the railroad and two strings of 12 inch tile would be laid up Woods and Bernerger streets making a first class job.

Polk Ritter was here on business from Welland Monday.

B. J. Long was a business visitor in Chicago Thursday.

Eugene Dull was here from Mendota and leased the Henry Hildman building with the putting in of a soft drink parlor and grocery and lunch room in view.

Joseph E. Vincent was able to be down town Friday for the first time since his operation.

There will be no concert here next Friday night owing to the Mendota fair but if the weather permits the boys will continue their weekly concerts for some time yet.

Miss Ruth Merschon is employed at the George Thier home while Miss Violet Meiden is taking a two weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Horton were down from Compton Monday and left a growing plant of cotton all in the buds at the bank for exhibition. He also left some samples of corn picked in August. The display comes from Macon, Miss., and is interesting to many of us who have not had the opportunity to travel through the south.

W. H. Glaser was in town Saturday being his first visit to town on crutches since he injured his back in a fall some weeks ago.

Irving Halbaumer returned to St. Louis Sunday to resume his studies at the seminary there.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Bieschke and family were out from Aurora over Sunday and visited at the Florian Walter home.

Herman Knauer had the misfortune of breaking his right arm Sunday evening while cranking his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafe Nelles left on Thursday for a week's visit with her sister and husband at Joliet.

NEW BRANCH OF LEGION FORMED AT CONVENTION

"Land, Sea, Air Gang" to Meet Yearly with American Legion.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 18.—By the Associated Press—With most of the "heavy" speaking program out of the way, the national convention of the American Legion today awaited committee reports and resolutions.

These reports and resolutions and election of officers are expected to occupy most of the remaining business sessions of the gathering today and tomorrow with the climax coming tomorrow with the new leaders to be chosen.

A number of resolutions said to be of a controversial nature were being threshed out by the resolutions committee and it was said there might be "fireworks" when some of them were presented on the floor.

The American Legion Auxiliary will nominate officers today and receive committee reports as will the "40 and 8," the playground of the legion.

A feature of the entertainment on today's program is the annual parade of the "40 and 8."

New Branch Organized

Formation of a new group of the Legion with membership restricted to Legionnaires who served in the navy or marine corps, was announced today. It will be known as the American Legion Land, Sea and Air Gang.

Joseph Frank of Miami, Fla., who was chairman of the organization meeting, was named its head with the title of general. Other officers selected are Miss Josephine O'Reilly, Milwaukee, Major General; Miss Blanche Slater, Chicago, Adjutant General, and E. D. Nelson, Moline, Ill., Paymaster General. Alvin Owsley, Dallas, Texas, Past Commander of the Legion was named as honorary member.

The "gang" will meet next year at Omaha, Neb., at the same time as the American Legion gathering when a constitution and by-laws will be adopted.

The organization is designed, its backers said, to promote better fellowship between former marines and sailors at the national conventions and to enable them to have a rallying place.

Attack Veterans' Bureau.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Changes in the personnel of the Veterans' Bureau planning board and the central board of appeals are demanded in a resolution criticizing those boards adopted by the American Legion national convention here today.

Why do you eat Bran?

TO FIGHT CONSTIPATION—the most dangerous condition your system can become chained to—to get free from bleary biliousness, dull headaches, nausea—etc., etc.!!!

Rid yourself of this dangerous condition—or start "slipping" and become a prey to any one of the most dreaded human ailments which have their beginning with constipation and toxic poisoning!

Fight constipation as you would fight fire! Fight it with bran—Kellogg's—BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN! Don't temporize! Don't waste time and health by going half-way! You need ALL BRAN; you need the bulk, the "roughage" of ALL BRAN, because it sweeps, cleanses and purifies!

REALIZE THIS—foods with a part bran content can only relieve constipation in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! If they are 25 or 50 per cent bran—you may get 25 or 50 per cent relief!

REMEMBER THIS—Kellogg's is ALL BRAN and is guaranteed to give you positive and permanent relief if you will eat two table-spoonfuls daily, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

Don't delay; don't fuss with half-way measures! You have too much at stake! All grocers sell—
